Angela Mia® Tomatoes and Sauces Now Non-GMO Project Verified

CHICAGO, (August, 2016) –As consumers are increasingly interested in non-genetically modified (GMO) food options, foodservice operators are under greater pressure to source ingredients that meet the standards of today’s patrons. To help operators respond to the growing non-GMO demand, ConAgra Foodservice is pleased to announce that all Angela Mia® tomato products and sauces will be Non-GMO Project Verified and will feature the Non-GMO Project Verified Seal.

“The Non-GMO Project Verified seal offers both operators and consumers assurance that all Angela Mia tomato products are produced according to the rigorous standards of The Non-GMO Project for GMO avoidance,” said Kelly O’Connor Grzyb, ConAgra Foodservice Marketing Manager. “We’ve gone through rigorous testing, traceability and segregation practices to maintain ingredient integrity, so that our customers can feel confident in what they’re serving.”

The Non-GMO Project mission is centered around protecting the non-GMO food supply and helping operators and consumers make informed decisions. Starting in fall 2016, Angela Mia packaging will feature the Non-GMO Project Verified seal.

Angela Mia’s on-going commitment to quality and sustainability offers piece of mind to operators looking for tomato products with superior flavor, color, texture and consistent recipe performance. From hand sorting to thorough quality checks and steam peeling, Angela Mia’s best in class practices result in ingredients operators can be proud to use – California vine-ripened and sun-nurtured tomatoes packed at the peak of the growing season.
